State Legislators Praise Holland's Port of Authority

A state legislature joint interim study committee left here yesterday, warm in its praise of the city's progressive program promoting water safety under the new Port of Holland Authority.

All functions of the new code were aired at a four-hour public hearing on marine casualties Tuesday night in the Warm Friend Tavern. This city was selected for the first of a series of public hearings this week because of Holland's progress toward solving such problems on a local level.

Rep. Herb Clements of Sanilac county, committee chairman, expressed the hope that Holland's code will serve as a pattern for uniform regulations on all lakes in the state.

Assisting him in conducting the hearing were Sen. Perry Greene, Sen. Milo Johnson, Rep. Louis Freye, Sen. Clyde Geerlings, Capt. H. C. Moore, chief of staff of Ninth Coast Guard district, Bert Robb and Norman Philo, the latter as clerk. Edwin Raphael, chairman of the Port of Holland Authority, presided.

Robb, director of the Michigan State Waterways commission, served as counsel during the hearing. He also made the initial presentation calling attention to the fact that local problems were studied two years before a code was adopted. He said Lake Macatawa is typical of many other lakes in that responsibility is shared by the city and townships.

"No community in Michigan has attempted to answer problems in marine safety such as Holland has done. You have endeavored to cooperate with state and federal laws in adopting your own harbor code. It's the first time in Michigan that all groups have joined in one board with one aim, making necessary compromises in the interests of all," Robb said.

Chairman Clements was particularly interested in the problems of boat liversies, citing startling statistics on drownings. He said there were 202 fatalities in Michigan in 1948 of which 151 were caused by boat accidents; 222 drownings in 1949, 161 boat accidents; 224 drownings in 1950, 178 from rental boats. "If call that slaughter!" he shouted.

He suggested licensing all rental boats and restricting the number of people. Jack Grissen, representing local boat liversies on the board, doubted the effectiveness of limiting occupants in view of the fact that he often rents boats by the month or week and has no knowledge how many persons a renter might put in the boat. It was pointed out the person who rents the boat would be responsible on that score.

Harbormaster Chester Kramer said his main work has been educating boat operators, keeping fishermen, water skiers and racing boats in their own sections. He explained he is a deputy sheriff with authority to make arrests. Cases are remanded to township or city courts, according to place of the offense. He said there have been few "hot-rod" operators and in general the public is well pleased with lake operations under the new code.

Other appearing were Mayor Harry Harrington; Charles Conrad, boats; William H. Van de Water, Chamber of Commerce; Cornelius Strop, fishing; Charles R. Sligh, water skiing; Robert Vischer, Common Council; Don Jesiek, shipyards.

The legislative study committee stayed overnight at the Warm Friend Tavern and boarded an 83-foot Coast Guard cutter Wednesday for Grand Haven and Muskegon. Other stops and hearings are scheduled at Pentwater, Mackinac Island, Cheboygan, Indian River, Port Huron and Detroit.

Alert Youngsters Find Missing Used Car on Lot

Car Plunges Over Steep Embankment

Allegan (Special) — A woman whose car plunged down a 50-foot embankment near Bradley early Thursday was in fair condition at Allegan Health Center today.

Deputy Roy Pdiest, who investigated the accident on Indian Hill, said Mrs. Newell Barr, 41, Cedaronia, was lucky to be alive. Her car took out six guard rails and hit three big trees before it tumbled down the brush-filled gulley toward Titus lake east of Bradley. Mrs. Barr somehow extricated herself from the wreckage and got onto the highway, where Roger Morris, Bradley, saw her and took her to a Wayland doctor's office.

She later was taken to Allegan Health Center, where she was found to have suffered a lacerated leg and possible rib fracture.

Mrs. Barr told Pdiest she wasn't acquainted with the road, which snakes down a steep descent. She was believed to be traveling toward the Avalon tavern on Gun lake where she is employed as a waitress.

Truck Plunges Through Bridge At Port Sheldon

Port Sheldon (Special)—A three-ton truck carrying six tons of mixed concrete crashed through a wooden plank bridge across the channel to Pigeon Lake at 10:15 a.m. today. No one was injured in the accident.

The truck snapped surface timbers on the bridge and then spit several supporting pilings before ending with its rear end in about two feet of water. Residents of the area said the bridge is 30 years old.

Residents of 40 cottages were stranded by the incident, and probably will not be able to get their cars out until the bridge is repaired. No other road leads to the mainland.

The truck had carried four loads of mixed concrete across earlier in the morning. Roscoe Moore, driver of the truck said. The truck is owned by Moore and leased to the H. F. Postma gravel company of Grand Rapids.

Postma said it was his smallest truck, and that the truck was carrying concrete to build a cottage across the channel.

But he added that, "If I had seen this bridge myself, I'd never have sent my trucks over it."

Postma said that several timbers broken by the truck were rotted. He said at noon today that he was having a crane brought from Grand Rapids to lift the truck out of the hole in the bridge. He added, however, that it would be several hours before the crane could arrive.

Damage to the truck was slight, Postma said, although the rear end was still beneath the water, making a damage estimate difficult.

Henry Medema of Grand Rapids, vacationing at the resort area, said he was fishing from the bridge with two of his children when the truck arrived. He said the truck waited until he and his children were able to get off before it started over. He said the truck moved slowly across the bridge before dropping through.

The child's mother, who came to this country a few years ago as a French war bride, had planned to leave El Paso Saturday with her three children to make her home in Holland.

Only sketchy information was available about the accident. It was learned the child was hit by a car being backed out of a driveway. He died en route to an Army hospital. The child had just recovered from a siege of pneumonia three weeks ago.

Surviving besides the parents and grandparents are a sister, Yvonne, almost 5, and a brother, James, 3. Just a year ago Yvonne suffered a skull fracture when she fell from the back door of a car. She recovered satisfactorily, her grandmother said.

No-Hitter Proves Not Good Enough In Tense Contest

Pelon Sunocoos did it. They defeated heretofore undefeated Barber Fords 2-0 in one of the tightest games of the softball season at Third street diamond Friday night.

In the other game on Friday's card, Moose outwitted the Green Hornets to take a 17-10 slugfest victory.

It was the first time this season that Fords had to swallow the bitter pill of defeat. The losers Friday night had racked up 17 straight victories, including a first-round softball title and 11 straight league wins.

However, Friday's defeat wasn't any fault of Ford pitcher Norm Boeve. He was neigh onto perfect as he hurled hitless ball and struck out 13 Pelon batsmen.

It was two errors that led to the Ford collapse. They came together in the top half of the sixth. Up to that time the two teams were battling on even terms in the tense contest.

In that inning, Ken Matchinsky, leadoff man, drew a walk and went to second on a passed ball. Harry and Will De Neff followed with strikeouts. Then Cec Serier banged a grounder to deep short. Ron Appledorn, Ford shortstop scooped up the ball but threw past first base, allowing Matchinsky to score from second and sending Serier to second.

Jay Hoffman, next man up for Sunocoos, looped a curving fly ball between second and short that leftfielder Howie Diepenhorst misjudged. By the time the ball was relayed in, Serier had crossed home plate with the insurance run and Hoffman stopped at second. Jim Bagladi struck out to end the inning.

That did it. The two runs held up for the next inning and a half and Pelons walked off the field with the first victory of the season over Fords.

Case Feldman, Sunoco pitcher, allowed just three hits, all to third baseman Chet Johnson of Fords. However, in the pitching department, it was all Boeve's show. He walked four men, struck out 13 and didn't allow a hit.

In the first game, Moose spread its scoring over five innings while the Green Hornets counted in that same number of innings, but not enough.

The slugging winners scored two in the top half of the first, added six in the second, four more in the third, two in the fifth and three in the seventh.

Highlight in the winner's hit department was a home run in the top of the third by pitcher Herk Cramer. Other Moose hitters were Stu Baker with three out of six, Paul Fortney, Frank Bagladi, George Botsis, Walt Hudak and Cramer with two apiece; Ted Bos, Les Dorneweerd, Dale Boeve and Bill Zych with one apiece.

The Green Hornets gathered six hits off the offerings of Cramer. Hitters were Jay Wolbert and George Smeenge with two apiece, plus Al Sauder and Jason De Vries, with one apiece.

Sauder started on the mound for the losers and was relieved by Nick Schregardus in the second.

Here is Gustav vom Birkbusch and a wooden counterpart his owner rigged up for his house number at Waukazoo. The wooden dachshund now appears at the entrance of Woodcote, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Junius B. Wood in the Waukazoo woods.

Aging Gustav Returns To Waukazoo to Die

When Junius B. Wood, political writer and former foreign correspondent, mentioned a few days ago that one of his beloved dachshunds had died, The Sentinel asked him to write about it. Here is his tribute to the family pet.

By Junius B. Wood

Like Chinese who return to the graves of their ancestors, Gustav returned to his beloved Waukazoo woods to live his last few days. Another month more and he would have been 15—which is 105 years for a human being—a long life and a useful one if a dachshund could voice its dogdom ambitions and accomplishments.

That last day his aged legs ambled out through the woods where he's been born for the usual morning routine of sniffing the trees and satisfying himself that a night prowling opossum or other intruder had been only a troubled dream. Convinced that all was safe, he came back to the door, stretched on his side and in a few minutes the spark of life flickered out.

As a pup, Gustav was dropped on his head and was dominated by an aggressive and belligerent father. If he attempted to join in the digging when dad burrowed after a mole until only a trail showed above ground, Gustav was chased yelping away. So he attached himself to the Junius B. Wood's owners of the assorted tailwaggers, looked upon by the tribe as the household pet.

Through his life, he went where his owners went. He viewed this country through the rear window of an automobile, disliked filling station attendants, frightened hotel chambermaids and suspected amiable laundrymen who disappeared with the shirts and socks. He made two trips to Europe, chased the ship cat up a mast, pulled the tail feathers from a Tyrolean rooster and stopped a Berlin streetcar in the middle of a block, a serious offense in orderly Germany.

As the years added, his red head changed to snowy white and hearing was less acute but he still could spot the returning family car a block away. Like an octogenarian in a favorite rocker, he stuck closer to his basket and instead of jumping and frisking would rub a white head against his owners' ankles for attention. His slender figure and hearty appetite never changed—an ambition of many important persons—and he loudly demanded a bedtime biscuit to the last.

With animal instinct, he knew that the old heart was missing a beat and that the days were running out. He gave his familiar grounds and neighbors a thorough inspection after his return but did not wander again far from the back door. He is buried under his favorite tree. The other dogs, his fat daughter and granddaughter, sense that he will not return. They never hesitated to crowd him out of his basket. Now they avoid it and it is empty. His owners miss him more.

Hamilton Dumps Van Dyke Autos

A line triple in the fourth by Ed Sale broke up a Wooden Shoe league game at Hamilton Friday evening, bringing victory to the home club over Van Dyke Autos. Hamilton won, 5-3.

Two were aboard when Sale lined his triple, but Boeve wasn't satisfied, and in the tall-end of the fifth slammed homer. That completed Hamilton scoring.

Meanwhile, the invading Automen had been trying for four innings to understand Johnson's hurling, and finally in the fifth inning got Zeke Piersma home after Dave Kempker doubled. They added two more in a strong bid in the sixth frame, getting Al Piersma and Paul Van Eck home. Piersma had singled to open the inning, and then Van Eck poled a triple.

Kempker led the Automen in hitting, getting a double and two singles. Al Piersma and Van Eck each got two swats, all singles but for Van Eck's triple.

The only other hit went to Jack Kempker, a single in the fifth inning.

For winning Hamilton Boeve led with his homer, followed by Sale with his triple and Johnson with the double. Swatting singles were Lugthied, Kentzel and Lubbers.

Johnson was counted the winner, and Clyde Kehrwecker the loser.

It's Your Government! Make It Good: Wood

Take an interest in your federal government, Junius B. Wood, former foreign correspondent, told Rotarians at their regular luncheon meeting Thursday at The Castle.

"Our government is a good government if we all help to make it good. Maybe you're only 75 men in 150 million in this country, but don't sit back and do nothing. Write your representatives in Washington. They want to hear from you and they want to do what's best for the country."

Wood, who traveled all over the world as a correspondent for the Chicago Daily News before becoming a writer for Nation's Business in Washington, delved into his own rich experiences to bring home his points.

But he centered his thoughts on federal government in Washington. "We've got so much government now it's grown away from us, and we shouldn't let it get out of our hands. We've given so much authority to government that it now tells us what to do."

He said Michigan received $76 million in state aid from the federal government but at the same time paid $2.7 billion to the government. "It is just like being held up and the fellow who takes your wallet is big-hearted and gives you a dime for carfare," he quipped.

"In 1930, federal taxes amounted to 30 per cent and local taxes 50 per cent but today federal taxes take 80 per cent and local taxes 10 per cent. The federal government goes along mostly on a theory of emergencies and presently employs 42,000 public relations men who give lavish services offering $73 million worth of free folders, most of which find their way into our bigger and better wastebaskets. And for that we face another increase in postal rates.

"And all these investigations! There's really nothing new about gambling in this country... or corruption or government contracts, or even about the Chinese lobby here. It reminds me of pickpockets working a crowd, with one attracting a lot of attention to cover up for the others.

"As for all that foreign aid, there's great doubt whether it's appreciated. It's my belief that the old-time missionaries did a lot more to help some of the people than all the Point 4 stuff going on today. A $5 million irrigation ditch in China means little to us—and little to the Chinese—but if we were to reduce that figure into so many cisterns for each Chinese family involved, they'd probably be our friend for five generations. There are just too many people who are quite willing to be downtrodden and would just as soon be left alone!"

The writer spoke of his long association with Syngman Rhee, president of Korea, whom he characterized as a sincere old gentleman—but stubborn.

"The main trouble with our government today is that we lack policies and direction. The Communistic menace is not a menace if you know how to meet it. Tell a Russian what you're going to do and do it, and he'll respect you, but if you try to reason with him you'll argue until 2 a.m. and find he'll wake you at 8 a.m. loaded with fresh arguments!"

"We need firm policies in our government. We shouldn't wait for Russia to do something and then decided how to meet that particular crisis. We should tell them what we're going to do and DO it," he said.

An exceptionally large turnout was present for the weekly meeting, including many guests. Brief greetings were given by the Rev. Garrett De Jong, Reformed church missionary at Kuwait on the Persian gulf.

L. R. Arnold Cautions Farmers On Storing Hay

Grand Haven (Special)—Farmers who store their hay crop before it is dry enough to "go in" are apt to be "playing with fire," cautions L. R. Arnold, county agricultural agent.

It requires only a small pocket of damp hay to start trouble. Fire losses from overheating usually are the result of improper checking or an inclination to take a chance.

Unusual odors may be the first symptoms of heating. Vapor rising from a warm, moist area on top of the hay may be another warning.

A hay probe and thermometer provides the safest way to check for dangerous heating. Arnold tells how to make a homemade probe this way. Take a 10-foot length of half inch pipe or electrical thin-wall conduit with a hardwood point.

Drill several quarter inch holes in the pipe, just above the point. After the probe is inserted in the hay, a thermometer is suspended inside from a string. Readings should be taken at several locations and depths throughout the mow. Leave the thermometer in the hay for about 15 minutes before taking a reading.

Arnold explains that temperature readings as high as 140 degrees Fahrenheit are not too serious and may be expected in the normal curing process. But daily reading should be taken at this stage. Temperatures as high as 160 degrees are a definite danger signal and reading should be taken every few hours.

If the temperature reaches 180 degrees, shut off ventilation, call the fire department and start removing the hay as quickly as possible.

Barley Increases In Ottawa County

Grand Haven (Special)—Barley seems to be on the increase in Ottawa county, reports L. R. Arnold, county agricultural agent.

Arnold visited a fine field of six-rowed barley on the Green-valley farm last. Gerrit Buth, owner, remarked that he had combined 31 acres of the 15 acres and had a yield of 190 bushels.

Gerrit expects to increase his acreage of barley, cut down on corn acreage. It is too depleting, he says. He can use barley to establish new seedlings also. It gives a much feed per acre. Gerrit expects to have some of this harvest to sell to others as seed.

Surrounded by her 73 scrapbooks she has compiled in 50 years, Mrs. Nellie Burleson of Wayland, spends many hours reviving old memories and looking up forgotten news stories. Everything from bird pictures to a complete set of "The Nebbs" for three years is in the collection.

She's Got Practically Everything In Her Collection of Scrapbooks

Wayland (Special) — Clipping savers and picture pasters may now step back and bow low to Mrs. Nellie Burleson of Wayland, probably the champion scrapbook-maker in this part of the country. Since 1901, when she first began snipping out pretty pictures, recipes and funny stories from the newspapers, Mrs. Burleson has filled and kept intact 73 scrapbooks.

And she's still going strong. From that veritable library of miscellaneous information, Mrs. Burleson has settled many an argument and proved many a point. For each book is dated and in late years, they've been catalogued by subject interest.

For instance, there are several books containing all of Robert Ripley's "Believe it or Not" over many years and others contain other informative series such as historical strips on Michigan, questions and answers, and complete sets of biographies which have run in state newspapers.

The Roosevelt family from Teddy to Franklin is thoroughly covered, as is the life of General Pershing. Two World Wars have filled several volumes and some are devoted to cartoons, magazine pictures and crochet patterns.

But the miscellaneous books! There may be found everything from golden weddings, auction sales, the Lindbergh kidnapping, to styles of 1860 and news features of every kind and from every place.

Mrs. Burleson hasn't been particular what the story or picture was about, so long as it was interesting and worth keeping.

But, starting in Middleville as a young homemaker, and continuing in Wayland 33 years ago, she has been careful to catch all the local news.

"I guess I have every birth, marriage and death in 50 years somewhere in those books," Mrs. Burleson comments, glancing over the stacks of stuffed volumes.

Her first book is the most miscellaneous assortment of them all. It contains everything that attracted her attention.

"After that, I got a system. Now everything goes in its proper place and in chronological order," she says.

After clipping newspapers for a few weeks, she goes at her job methodically. The items are sorted by subject, and then dropped into 12 boxes, one for each month. Then the pasting begins.

THE "FATHERS" IN BLACK AND WHITE

President Truman has given his endorsement to the project of publishing the public and personal papers of America's Revolutionary Fathers. The National Historical Publications commission has been working for a year looking over the ground, with a view to deciding which of the "Fathers"
should be given priority. The president, while not playing any favorites, is urging that the project itself should be pushed without delay.

The commission has a model in the publication now in progress of the paper of Thomas Jefferson.
Princeton University has undertaken the job of getting into print all the extant writings of the author of the Declaration of Independence. It is estimated that before the project is completed
some 40 volumes will be published.

For some reason not immediately clear the commission has decided on James Madison as the next one in the list. Madison was of course a fairly important Revolutionary Father, and since he occupied the White House during the War of 1812, the mere timing of his political career may have been a bearing on the choice. As a statesman however he was less important than some others.

Those others include Benjamin Franklin and Alexander Hamilton,
both of whom are on the list following Madison. Then there is also John Adams; and, rather curiously, his son John Quincy Adams,
is listed for such publication treatment. The latter would hardly qualify as a Revolutionary Father, but it would certainly be valuable to get his personal and state papers down in black and white. For some reason Washington has not yet been listed.
The reason may be that there has already been done for the preservation of Washington's papers than with those of the others named.

President Truman's endorsement of the project is timely. It would hardly seem necessary however to emphasize the importance of such a movement. The writings of the founders of this nation have been used for all sorts of purposes, political and otherwise, since the latter part of the eighteenth century. The result has been a great deal of distortion. The present project has for its purpose the publication of all the papers of those Founders as they were actually written, with no axes to grind and regardless of what the words may do for their reputations or to the reputations of others.

It is to be a purely factual record. America needs that kind of information about the men who established this nation. We are asking our elected officials in Washington here and now how much this will cost.

Christian Social Life
I Corinthians 8:1-13
By Henry Geerlings

This is a difficult subject to define. There are many voices raised on all sides, each one telling confidently what Christian social life should be. The young disciple of Christ who desires to labor for him is besieged by widely opposing bands. Some call for a very narrow and restricted Christian social life; others for a life of the greatest possible liberty. In a great many places the social life of the professed Christian and the world are one and the same. No wonder the young Christian is perplexed.

Generally when we think of social life we think of the recreations, pursuits and amusements which people indulge in, in their spare time, in their homes and in public places. But social life has a wider connotation. People can engage in projects that are not recreational but humanitarian. The root meaning of the word social is the disposition to mix in friendly converse or action. People with like tastes, desires and pursuits
come together in groups to follow their inclinations. Congeniality is the word that describes them.

When we speak of Christian social life in this sense it should be our common interest in Christ that draws us together. There is an old saying that "birds of a feather flock together." And another,
"water will find its level." All this means that in the final analysis each person will gravitate to the group which is most congenial to his tastes.

In the days of the early church
they had a Christian social life.
They went from house to house
having their love feasts, eating their meat with gladness. There are some large city churches that provide Christian social life for their young people. They have their gatherings where they have their amusements, recreations
and intellectual exercises all under the leadership of experienced Christians. People like company.
They join up and become interested in church work. It is very important, however, that they keep up their interest in the work of the Lord.

The Christian, in seeking to find the right Christian social life should be guided by the Word of God. He is in the world but not of the world. He is under no obligations to conform to the world.
As far as he is concerned he is dead to the world and the world to him. He is to be a witness to the world of the redemption, that is in Christ. If one has any doubt as to what to do in respect to society he can find all the information in the Bible how to act and what to do. If he will look around he will find groups of Christians engaged in common Christian tasks that are congenial and profitable.

The Christian in seeking social life should not join with any group or go to any place where Christ cannot accompany him. This will save both him and his friends embarrassment. This is a truth that is self evident. Of course we mean going there of his own choice. Duty will lead a person into association with many persons with whom he can have no Christian Fellowship. We must do business with them. And in our contacts we can build up friendships that may be the means of leading many into the kingdom.
While not engaging in fellowship with the worldly social life we are to be friendly toward it.
Christ was known as the friend of sinners. Wherever He saw need He was ready to give immediate aid. The word friend should be synonymous with the word Christian.

The Christian in his social life should beware lest his liberty be a snare to a weak brother. That is what is taught in our Scripture lesson today. It had happened that at the public feasts some Christians ate meat that had been offered to idols. He knew that an idol was nothing, that the meat had not been affected by its being offered. It was neither sanctified nor profaned. But there were present some immature believers who did not have this knowledge.

When they saw this brother eating this meat they ate also. But later their consciences troubled them. They believed that they had committed a sin. The result might be that one would trifle his conscience and continue; and this indifference to one sin would lead to indifference toward others.

This is a point of Christian social life that ought to be emphasized today. We see many professed Christians asserting their liberty. Their conduct emboldens weak brethren to follow their steps. The results are far from good. As a matter of fact these liberated people are only advertising their own bondage. They are insensible to true spiritual values and indifferent to the eternal welfare of others.

In a recent book, the author tells of listening to Dr. Wilfred Grenfell. "We sat enthralled, listening to his words, and looking into his sun-tanned face." Here was a skilled physician who early in life had given himself to Christ and led him to Labrador to heal
and bring the gospel to those people. God had taken that life and transformed it, until his face shone with the light of heaven.

A full program keeps 70 4-Hers busy during their four days this week at Camp Kidwell, the camp
the kids help build and pay for themselves. Top

Camp Kidwell Sessions
Brief But Full of Fun

Allegan (Special) — Farm boys and girls can't be spared very well at this time of year when hay is being cut, so 4-H club
camps are short—only four days.
But nearly 70 10 to 12-year-olds at Allegan county 4-H Club
Camp Kidwell made every minute
count last week.

This week, just as many of their older brothers and sisters will have a four-day outing at Eagle lake.

Perhaps a factor that makes camping at Kidwell seem to be a livelier spectacle is that this place is no luxury spot, with a fat fee buying fancy surroundings and equipment. This is a camp the kids have helped build and pay for themselves.

So in this, the third year of camp, there are still a few comforts of home to be desired. But no one's kicking—they are proud of their achievements in this short time.

The central lodge, which was a broken down hotel building has a modern kitchen, roomy dining hall and recreation facilities.
There are four new knotty pine cabins named Heart, Health, Hand
and Hands—the 4-H's of 4-H.

A big baseball diamond has been cleared, the beach is in good shape. There's electricity in the main building and the road is graded.

When their number is up, the youngsters take their turn at doing dishes. And three times a day, they file into the dining room to consume astonishing amounts of food.

The camp is still $3,000 in debt,
so far as the purchase price goes.
But the hundreds of 4-H club members have raised $9,000 in three years, most of it paying for improvements.

Beyer Resigns
As Dog Warden

Tony Beyer, dog warden of Ottawa county for the last 16 years,
has resigned to accept a sales position. Beyer filed his letter of resignation with Sheriff Jerry Vanderbeek July 18.

Beyer resigned as dog warden
for the city of Holland one year ago after serving 14 years in that capacity. He was succeeded by Jack Borgman, route 2, who now will assume the additional duties
of county warden.

In his letter of resignation,
Beyer issued thanks to all Ottawa
county residents for co-operation
during his many years of service,
and added "I never had a harsh word with anybody during those many years."

"I only drew three complaints
in all that time," Beyer said.
Beyer will continue as a special deputy in Ottawa county, a post
he has held for the last 34 years.
He is the oldest Ottawa deputy in

Car Runs Into House;
Both Are Damaged

A car driven by Lawrence G.
Overbeek barely missed a street
sign and telephone pole, ran through a 1 1/2-foot hedge, continued on across a lawn and crashed into the corner of a house on South Shore Dr. Saturday afternoon.

It all happened when Overbeek swerved to avoid a collision with a car driven by Dr. Montener who had started across the intersection. Damage to the house was estimated at $500 by owner Joel St. John, Ottawa deputy, who investigated the accident.

The impact pushed part of the cement block foundation into the cellar, tore the siding and cracked the plaster in two rooms. A large picture window just above where the car hit escaped damage.
Overbeek, 19, lives at 625 Ste-ketee Ave. Dr. Mortenier, 56, is from Chicago and is staying at the Macatawa hotel.

VOLLEYS FROM AMBUSH

Wot's this?
Florida trying to chisel in on Michigan's summer vacations?
Seen around Holland are some handy brow moppers (paper washcloths) distributed to promote Florida for a summer playground as well as a winter playground.
The things were sent here for "folks up north who don't know about Florida's mild summers and budget vacations."
Cleverly portrayed in the inside is a friendly gremlin drinking cooling drinks under a palm tree pointing to a big thermometer which lists cities with the annual average number of days 90 degrees and above, taken from U. S. weather bureau records in cities shown.
It lists Phoenix, 152 days; Dallas, 88; Houston, 80; Memphis and Atlanta, 51; St. Louis, 35; Washington, D.C., 26; Dayton, 20; Pittsburgh, 16; Los Angeles, 14; Chicago, 12; Boston, 9; New York, 7; and Miami, 6.
Nope, no Michigan cities listed. So let's just stay around home this summer, huh?

The Sentinel columns come in handy lots of times.
Mrs. A. E. Sharp of Stamford, Conn., annually announces her arrival at Macatawa in the Sentinel so that her piano tuner will know it's time for him to come up and tune the piano.
She just can't remember his name. Besides, she doesn't have a telephone.

Another note in The Sentinel resulted in a nice telephone chat between Mrs. Lowell Olmstead and Mrs. Charles Steketee. The Olmsteads and their daughter, Dianne, have just moved here from Lansing. Mrs. Steketee who formerly taught school in Howell recalled having a Dianne Olmstead as one of her students.

She speculated there could be only one Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Olmstead with a daughter, Dianne, in the whole wide world, so she called the home to welcome them to Holland.
It was right welcome too.

Junius B. Wood, who usually can top anything, was right stopped a few days ago.
He was addressing Rotarians at the Castle last Thursday when some youngsters peered into the doorway.
"That's Mr. Truman talking down there," one youngster told the others.

Max Welton, rural mail carrier for the Holland post office, isn't a guy to be stymied when something happens.

When he woke Monday, the power was off in his section on 132nd Ave. Consequently, he couldn't shave or even have much breakfast.

So he just packed his electric razor and shaved at the post office. Breakfast, one can always get elsewhere.
Holland state park is always a busy place during the summer, but it was pretty busy one Wednesday afternoon a couple of weeks ago when more than 100 cars formed a cavalcade from Grand Rapids. Picnickers were delegates to the 41st International Christian Endeavor union in Grand Rapids. A threat of rain sent all of them to the pavilion for a short spell. It "shore" was crowded!

Remember that "blow" that uprooted dozens of trees here July 8?

E. V. Hartman, president of the Board of Education, said it couldn't hold a candle to one at Camp Grayling back in 1916 when he was active in such things as the National Guard.

Most vivid recollection was the big spruce tree which snapped off 10 feet above the ground smack into a squad tent, missing all eight men.

M. G. Manting, local historian and man-about-town who spends a lot of time just observing people, has one gripe.
And that's these adults who insist on walking too fast for their children's short legs. He doesn't like to see children "dragged."
"Put that in your column, and tell those mothers and fathers to slow up a bit," he said.

Newest publication appearing in Holland these days is the Public Works Pow Wow, a handy title for a BPW monthly sheet which makes the most of its P-W combinations.

The little sheet is edited by Neal Houtman, who unmasked himself as editor-in-chief in the second issue, after no brickbats were thrown after the first.

His July editorial was a little gem on the blessed heritage of freedom in America.
"Human nature is prone to forget the good things and complain of the bad. Now is a good time to reverse the process. Let us forget the unpleasant and let our thoughts dwell on the better things of life, all of which we have at our fingertips. The world seeks the 'Four Freedoms.' Four Freedoms? We have Four Thousand Freedoms!"

"Let us hold this independence as a sacred trust!"
"Let us begin to take a new pride in America—in Michigan—in Holland—in the Board of Public Works!"

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Irvine of Zeeland. The immediate families attended the ceremony.
A dinner in honor of the couple was served after the ceremony in the Colonial room of the Dutch Mill restaurant.

The couple left by plane on a two-week wedding trip to Colorado and California, where they will visit friends and relatives. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Pettie will make their home at 444 Plasmann Ave., Montello Park.

Jaackel Damage Case Settled Out of Court

Grand Haven (Special)—During the course of the trial Monday afternoon, in a case brought by John Jaackel of Holland against Elmer and Elmer Don Teusink of Park township, the parties agreed upon a settlement and the jury was dismissed. The jury will return Tuesday, July 31, when an appeal from the probate Court of Ottawa county in the estate of Alice Oetman, deceased, will be heard.

Jaackel was seeking $10,000 damages from the Teusinks for alleged permanent injuries sustained Feb. 25, 1950, when he was struck by the Teusink car while assisting a stalled motorist, Randall Vande Water, on South Shore drive in Park township.

On Wednesday the court will hear the case brought by the Holland-Racine Shoes, Inc., against Donald Cook of Zeeland, without a jury.

Park Attendance Cut By Gloomy Weather

Bad weather kept the Holland State Park attendance down the week-end. A lot of beach activity but not too much swimming was reported by park Manager Clare Broad.

Trailer spaces are overflowing and several have been turned away, only two trailers were placed Sunday out of a long line and there were 12 in line this morning with only 10 spaces available. Twenty-five trailers were parked Saturday. The number of tent permits is below last year. A total of 940 camp permits have been issued so far this season, Broad said.

Only 5,000 visitors were recorded on Saturday but better weather Sunday brought out 15,000 visitors. The week's total was 84,000 and brings the year's total to 865,000 visitors.

Players Bounced In Fiery Game At Riverview

Temper flared after a close decision at the plate in Monday night's Dutchmen-South Haven Merchants game, and plate umpire Russ Woldering soon gave two of the local players the heave-ho.

Gene Schrotenboer, hard-hitting Dutch catcher said he had put out Neil Wenban, South Haven shortstop, in the play. He stuck to his guns and shortly got the thumb. Then Whitey Witteveen, who had come from his position at first continued where Schrotenboer had left off and he too, shortly, was evicted.

That incident flattened the locals, and after it occurred, South Haven jogged around the basepaths amid a flood of Dutch errors. Final score was 19-7 for South Haven, and 11 of the runs came in the three innings after the big argument.

South Haven had taken an early lead, getting three men home in the first inning. The Dutch came back, however, with two in their end of the first, when Zeke Pierson poled a homer with Lou Humbert aboard.

In the second, South Haven squeezed another man home, but Rog Eggers was getting tough, and for the next three innings allowed no runner to score.

The Dutch, however, got a man home in the fifth, and added four more to go out in the sixth, 7-5. South Haven had also gotten a run in the sixth.

But then the roof dropped, and before the seventh inning was past, South Haven had seven runs and six hits. Eggers weathered the storm, but at the end of the inning, co-managers Loren Wenzel and Ben Batema pulled him in favor of Daffy Victor.

But South Haven's Merchants had a taste of victory, and in the next inning kept right in with their assault, getting five more runs. They added two more in the ninth.

The Dutch, meanwhile, were shackled by Chuck Pratt, who allowed only two hits in the final three frames. Pratt allowed 12 hits over the distance, but only in the first and sixth innings was he in real trouble.

The loss was tacked to Rog Eggers. Time of the game was nearly three hours.

Top hitter for the Dutch was Schrotenboer, who got three for four and now has hit safely 19 times in 34 trips to the plate. Lou Humbert and Lloyd Driscoll each got two singles. Pierson got his homer and Jack Van Dorpe hit a double. Ed Setter, Morry Witteveen, and Merrill Human each got singles.

The Dutch entertain Kalamazoo Fullers Thursday night, and then travel to Zeeland Friday night for a game with the Chix.

New City Booklet Now Available

Holland's new city booklet is off the press.

The new 32-page booklet for 1951 has several new features too. It contains pictures of Mayor Harry Harrington, City Manager Harold C. McClintock, Common Council, and even a picture of Kollen park with tulips in bloom. Diagrams show anticipated receipts and expenditures of Holland's tax dollar, and a map of Holland's ward boundaries.

City government is explained in an article which takes in the new council-manager form of government, operations of the utility set-up, the finance program, tax period and assessing system, ordinances, city buildings, Holland hospital, streets, safety, parking, Port of Authority, parks and cemeteries, recreation, health and welfare, library, industries, building activities, Greater Holland Community Foundation, and planning commission.

Holland's mayors since 1867 also are listed. Other information lists members of council, administrative personnel, city boards, Port of Holland Authority, Chamber of Commerce, Board of Education, Greater Holland Community Foundation, Planning commission, Tulip Time Board of Directors, and Museum board.

These booklets are available at the city clerk's office. They also are used by the city hostess in welcoming newcomers into Holland, and by classes in school.

Copies also are mailed to city clerks in other cities.

Commercial Plate Facts Sent to Local Police

In an attempt to clear up the question of who has to have commercial license plates, the state motor vehicle has issued this information:

If the vehicle is constructed or used for the transportation of goods, wares or merchandise, or if the load constitutes goods, wares or merchandise, a commercial plate is required. A salesman may use a passenger car to transport his samples, but he cannot make deliveries from a passenger licensed car.

In the case of painters, carpenters, and the like, they may carry their tools providing the main purpose of the vehicle is transporting the painter to his work. Thus far there is no court interpretation on this class of worker and local courts will probably be asked to make the decisions.

Hope Names Local Duo For Fall Fund Drive

Mayor Harry Harrington and Mrs. George E. Kollen have been appointed to head the men's and women's sections respectively of the Hope college fund raising campaign, scheduled in the Holland area for next November.

Announcement of the appointments was made today by Dr. Irwin J. Lubbers, Hope college president, in confirming plans for the local campaign—the first step in a long-range program formulated and adopted by the college board of trustees at its June session.

The board determined that the most urgently needed projects are a new gymnasium, which will serve as a community center; a men's dormitory, a fine arts building for music, dramatics and arts, and development of the A. C. Van Raalte property.

Dr. Lubbers, gratified by the acceptance of Mrs. Kollen and Mayor Harrington to head the key posts in the forthcoming drive, said, "We could select no finer leaders for our local financial solicitation. Both Mrs. Kollen and Mayor Harrington enjoy the complete confidence and respect of our citizens. Both have given valued leadership to numerous civic projects for many years. In a most striking way, the families of Mrs. Kollen and Mayor Harrington, have been at the fore-front of our community growth and life for nearly a century."

"In accepting his appointment, Mayor Harrington assured me that his interest and participation in our campaign allowed him to give due recognition to the place Hope college fills in the community as a privately supported college, with its high scholastic standards, its Christian tradition and atmosphere and its century-old record for training leaders whose service to mankind is immeasurable," Dr. Lubbers said.

Furnace Company License Held Up

Detroit — The Holland Furnace company's re-application for a license to do business in Wayne and Oakland counties was held up for a period of 60 days by an order issued Monday by the Michigan Corporation and Securities commission.

Official text of the ruling follows: "It is ordered that action of the commission on the pending application of the Holland Furnace company for a renewal for its residential maintenance and alteration contractors license be and the same is hereby suspended for a period of 60 days from the date of this order."

The commission action followed three weeks of hearings in the two counties.

Holland spokesmen argued that the number of complaints were small in comparison with the company's total business. They said the hearing was limited to seven specific complaints and the company did business with more than 50,000 persons in the two counties.

Commissioner Dykema said the company's re-application "probably" would be granted at the end of 60 days.

Two Homers Cinch Tilt for Invaders In Seventh Frame

With one out, the bases loaded, and the score tied at 1-1, Jack Fancett of the Grand Rapids Carvers stepped into the batters box and did what all batters would like to do.

Fancett homered, a bases-loaded homer, that is, and that walloped over the centerfielder's head kept his team out in front in the Dutchmen-Carvers series, 2 games to 0. Carvers won; 6-4.

Then to add to the Dutchmen cause the next man up, Tom Moore, also homered.

But through it all shone the promise of Don Gilder, a new pitcher acquired by the Dutch, and but for the problem of one shaky inning, Gilder chopped down Carvers with methodical regularity, allowing only four other hits during the game.

Gilder struck out eight, two of those during his troubled seventh inning.

He also tied for top batting honors, getting a double and a single, a feat equalled only by Morry Witteveen.

Other hits collected by the Dutch besides the two each Gilder and Morry Witteveen got went to Lou Humbert, L. Driscoll, Whitey Witteveen, Tony Wentzel, and Loren Wenzel, all of whom got singles.

But the Dutch offense was smothered by sharp fielding on the part of the Carvers, else the locals might have taken the victory behind Gilder.

Art Buzalski, Carver shortstop, covered his position solidly, and on several occasions chopped down sure Dutch hits. The Carvers also trapped Whitey Witteveen between first and second in the eighth frame with some neat baseball.

The Dutch scored once in the fifth inning when Loren Wenzel walked, was sacrificed to second, and doubled home by Gilder.

Then in the seventh, three singles and a passed ball accounted for two more Dutch runs. In the ninth frame Morry Witteveen doubled, and came home when Gilder swatted a hole in the Carver defense that was counted an error. However the rally was nipped, and the Carvers went home with the win.

Kiwanians Hear Grand Rapids Man

"What's Right With America" was the subject of a talk by Grady F. McKay, Grand Rapids businessman, before the Kiwanis club Monday night at the Warm Friend Tavern.

McKay said, "Our federal system of government is all right, but the administering of it is what is wrong. However, we still have the right to choose our leaders and our representatives and that is what's right with America."

The speaker deplored the lack of interest shown by the American people in their government, stating, "The time has come when Americans, individually and collectively, must rededicate themselves to the principles upon which this great democracy of ours was founded and which principles we have never been in greater danger of losing than at the present time."

McKay emphasized, "Religion is the source of all our power, because from it comes our faith. If we will study the Bible and history of our nation and appreciate the things we have, we will come out all right."

Visiting Kiwanians introduced by President Wilbur Cobb were Frank B. Ricketta, Cambridge, Ohio; Glen M. Warner, Delaware, Ohio; and Bert Koelmansen, East Lansing. Other guests were Fred Scott and John Vander Vliet.

The invocation was given by Rhine Vander Meulen. Program chairman was George Schreur.

Camp Fire Day Camp in Third Week Gives Girls Variety of Programs

Highlight of the nature study group was the trip taken to Maple Brook farm. Girls took their lunches, looked over the farm and hiked on the dunes.

Once a week the campers slept in the open over night. Mrs. Timmer was assisted in this project by Mrs. Fehring. Volunteers helping were Mrs. Adrian Van Putten, Mrs. Harvey Poll and Marcia Knoll.

Two home runs in the fifth inning gave Holland Furnace a winning edge, at Third St. Monday night, and they went on to whip the Vets, 9-5. The second game went to Tulip Merchants over Baker Furniture, 5-3.

Two Vet pitchers allowed Furnace nine hits during the tilt, as the Vets sustained their first loss of second half competition. Fishing Trip to Canadian Wilds Described by Four-Man Party

A four-man party, including two from Holland, used an eight-day Canadian vacation to get in some excellent fishing, sightseeing and even a little prospecting.

The men left Holland more than a week ago and returned earlier last week.

In the group was George Vrieling, 276 Fairbanks Ave., Hine Van Der Heuvel, 605 Division Ave., Ray Haas of Allegan, and Don Elferdink of St. Joseph.

They drove in two cars and entered Canada at Sault Ste. Marie. After driving to Search Mountain, which is at mile 32 and the end of the highway, they took the Algonac railroad for 100 miles into the heart of speckled trout lake territory.

They described this trip through the mountains, rocks and lakes as the most picturesque they had ever seen.

The days were considerably longer than in Holland. It was daylight until 10:15 p.m. and the sun was up again at 3 a.m.

Van Der Heuvel said those lakes were only four miles from Lake Superior but were 1,600 feet higher according to geological survey. Van Der Heuvel added that all the streams seem to be in a hurry to get to Lake Superior and there are many waterfalls more than 50-feet high.

They caught 114 speckled trout in those streams in three days. The party returned via the same route, taking in several places of interest en route, including a stop at the Soo locks.

Van Der Heuvel also did some prospecting, and returned to Holland with some samples of pitchblende from which uranium is extracted. He said there appeared to be "a lot of the stuff" in that area.

As a matter of fact, the radiation given off by the mineral scotched up their film in a camera so that all the negatives turned out as just blotches, Van Der Heuvel said.

Tavern Owners Fight to Regain Beer License

Allegan (Special) — Charging that the Allegan township board is trying to force prohibition on the township, Fred and Clara Swartz, owners of the White House Tavern have launched a fight against action to revoke their beer and wine license.

Mr. and Mrs. Swartz secured a restraining order from Circuit Judge Raymond Smith halting revocation of the license until a court hearing Aug. 9.

Since the White House is the only township SDM license, the petitioners declare the township board's action in the matter was prohibition with referendum.

Their petition states the board refused to give them an opportunity to dispose of the business or license and its members indicated it will not issue another license at the place.

The township board last week asked the Michigan Liquor Control Commission to revoke the license, stating that Swartz had failed to abide by a midnight closing order of the township officials.

Swartz, naming both townships and state agencies as defendants, says the action was "capricious and arbitrary" and was not based on misconduct or violation of a law. The township board had re-issued the license in May.

The matter came to a head at the annual meeting of township electors in April when a vote approved a resolution to seek revocation of the license. The board re-approved it upon stipulation of the midnight closing hour to coincide with city tavern closings, township officials said.

She Thought '29 License Was Good for Life

Allegan (Special)—Deputy Walter Runkel sold a driver's license Thursday to a woman who thought her 1929 permit was good for life.

The Allegan county woman had brought her daughter to the license office to get her first operator's permit. Asked if she needed a renewal, the woman explained her license was still good—it carried no expiration date.

Runkel explained that 22 years ago, licenses didn't have such dates, but things have changed since then. He helped her make out a new application,

When we do sleep it is for only a short time.

I don't know how mail service will be from the camp so I will briefly outline my plans now in case you shouldn't get a letter for a time.

Three weeks we spend at the camp. I'm sure I'll have enough of that life after that time. Then we vacation for awhile on the western coast. I do not know if we will be permitted to travel at random after that or not. I think about Aug. 20th I will go into Italy and then on to Paris. After a few days in Paris I plan to visit in Holland for five or six days and then come home.

An alternate plan might be to visit Salzburg for the music festival instead of going to Italy. I do not know. I would go to Paris from there.

I am having a wonderful experience. Of course the comforts of home will be welcome when the time comes. I suppose I will be sick of having no hot water and bad food (Holland food will be good) after two more months, but right now it's all exciting.

I am finding out that to travel in Europe one should speak German, for most people know the language from occupation days. My little French has aided me often too. I do wish I could speak German though. A combination of these two languages is sufficient for travel anywhere in Europe. Of course, in the west many people can speak English.

I am glad we have a group because some of us can learn the ropes from seasoned travelers. The Experiment is a good entree into European customs and travel. Once a person knows the ropes it is best to take a car or buy one here, and travel in couples.
